SDM's Dr. Richard Ohrbach Receives 2021 American Headache Society (AHS) Award

Dr. Richard Ohrbach, Professor, Department of Oral Diagnostic Sciences

Each year the American Headache Society (AHS) recognizes members who showcase excellence in leadership and in the field of headache medicine. These distinguished awards are designed to honor and acknowledge members who have gone about and beyond in service of both the society and in the headache community.

Dr. Richard Ohrbach received the 2021 Steven B. Graff-Radford Orofacial Pain and Headache Lectureship.

This award is given in recognition of prominent status and contributions to the field of orofacial pain and headache research. Nominations for this award are provided by the TMD, Cervical Spine & Orofacial Pain Special Interest Section and recipients are invited to present the lecture during a dedicated plenary session at the Scottsdale Headache Symposium.

This award was named in honor of the late Dr. Steven B. Graff-Radford, for his profound contributions to the dental field and among his many accomplishments, the first dentist to become a board member of the American Headache Society.

Join us in congratulating Dr. Ohrbach on receiving this prestigious recognition.

SDM Students Giving Back to the WNY Community

In late November, 2021, Dr. M. Dian Chin Kit-Wells, Clinical Assistant Professor, Department of Pediatric & Community Dentistry, took volunteers including SDM dental students, Wesley Wolf, '25, Lakov Nikitkov, '23, Lauren Shine, '23 to work at Highmark Stadium raising funds for the Buffalo Prenatal- Perinatal Network (BPPN) initiatives.

The BPPN provides programs for populations most in need including home visits, Maternal and Infant Health programs, Responsible Fatherhood Initiative Programs and Healthy Families New York.
